

Bulletin 8 – ECC 2013 – Final Countdown (Please read!)

Issued 25st April 2013

Dear ECC Skippers,

Just 9 days to go – we are looking so much forward to see you all again in Palma. From today's point of view everything seems to be settled and well organised ... but: don't close the opera until the fat lady sings! (just to make sure – WE will not sing). In this last (!) Bulletin some smaller things important for you to know:

1. Change of Harbour

Due to unexpected reasons we had to adapt the route and find a new harbour/ anchorage for Cala Blava. That means we will go on Wednesday, May 8th from Porto Colom to Sant Jordi and not (!) to Cala Blava. The rest of the route remains unchanged

Wednesday, May 8th: Porto Colom – Sant Jordi (Anchoring)

Nice little natural harbour where we will anchor. Directly on the harbour promenade numerous restaurants and cafes invite you to spend some time enjoying local food and especially the freshly caught fish dishes.

Electricity/ Water: not available; Showers/ Facilities: no showers, sorry!; Restaurants/ Bars: available, very nice ones in town; Supermarket: available

From Sant Jordi to Palma as announced in the last Bulletin.

2. Logbook

Logbook will be uploaded on the ECC-website latest Sunday, 28th of April. Please download and print out yourself (!), we can't print it out for you - sorry.

3. Final Crew lists

Please make sure that you have sent us the latest status of your crew list. We have to fix the numbers for the events, dinners and parties and that means to save significant costs for no shows which we can better spend for beer for you.

Best Regards

Inken and the ECC Organisation Committee 2013
(Commodore and Crew of Boat 34)

Tapas!
